Managing People for Effective Performance

COURSE INTRODUCTION

Today's managers and their employees are constantly being tasked to do more with fewer resources in increasingly challenging business environments, and coping with technology and social changes that occur at dizzying speeds. The workforce is now more diverse, cutting across four generations with widely dispersed ethos and values. As competition becomes globalized and markets blend, the skills that brought us here cannot take us there!

In order to thrive in these unpredictable times, leading companies are strengthening organizational capabilities by equipping their managers with the new capabilities to focus people and teams for desired results.

By attending this course, participants will learn how to develop exceptional talents through influence and inspired guidance. They will gain improvements in their adaptive and communications skills, learn how to get buy-in, and deliver the results that ensure success. They will return to work equipped with the capacity to create an energized, high-impact work environment.

At the end of the course delegates will:

- Build critical competencies for leading self and others
- Acquire adaptive and problems solving skills for coping with change
- Focus employees and sustain engagement for results
- Appreciate the dynamics of the 21st century and the performance implications

The course features highly interactive sessions, targeted inputs, and self-led discovery and coaching

Organisations that have attended our Management and Leadership programmes include, CNOOC, Subsea7, Department of Petroleum Resources, Energia, Midwestern Oil & Gas, Brass LNG, REAN, First Registrars, and many more!

AUDIENCE

The course is especially suitable for Supervisors, Team Leads, and Mid-level Managers

YOUR COURSE LEADER:

Emmanuel Emielu, FCMI

An experienced leader, facilitator and coach of over 30 years, Emmanuel works with clients to deliver high performing teams and organizational change readiness. Career professionals experience dramatic transformations in their performance on and off the job, as he passionately engages with them to shape their attitudes, skills and behaviours.

Interest areas include self-leadership, change management, emotional intelligence, creativity, talent management, communication and problem solving. He is adept at facilitating both small and large group sessions, from senior executives to new hires, and delivers transformational results in workforce performance, strategy, culture, and organizational development. His engagements typically take place across Africa in countries like Nigeria, Ghana, Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, and Mozambique, including the UAE. Clients include leaders like ExxonMobil, Shell, Afriexim, Subsea7, ConocoPhillips, TOTAL, and several banks and insurance companies.

In addition to facilitation and coaching, Emmanuel is a keen follower of the energy industry, and provides insightful executive briefings that have impacted competitive strategy for his clients, including trade delegations.

Emmanuel is Managing Partner at Oil & Gas Soft Skills Limited, West Africa's leading provider of oil and gas workforce development, where he has successfully led business strategy and growth, and transforming it from a start up to a great brand. Prior to this, he worked at Halliburton Energy Services where he held senior roles in marketing, training and sales, with responsibilities that at one time covered the Sub-Saharan African region.

He is a Certified Brain Friendly Trainer, a Fellow of the Chartered Management Institute, UK, and Council Member for the Lagos Business School Alumni Association. He is also a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE), Nigeria Gas Association (NGA), the Oil & Gas Trainers Association of Nigeria (OGTAN), as well as being active in the Education & Training sector of the Nigerian Content Consultative Forum (NCCF)

Emmanuel studied Business Administration at the University of Lagos including a Masters in Marketing from the same institution. He holds a PG Certificate in Management from the Ashridge Business School, UK, and is currently studying for the Executive Masters in Management also at Ashridge. Earlier on, he completed the Senior Management Programme of the Lagos Business School, Lagos.

Emmanuel writes occasionally for industry magazines, and has delivered conference papers at the UN Conference on Trade & Development (UNCTAD), East Africa Petroleum Congress (EAPC), and the Society for Petroleum Engineers (SPE), to mention a few. He is currently a contributing author to an upcoming book on Neuroscience for trainers, to be published by Kogan Page, UK.
